

ABSTRACT

The sensitive, active surface of a wire-grid polarizer is protected from degradation by ambient environments by incorporating the component in a non-reactive atmosphere maintained by a sealed enclosure. The enclosure may provide a unitary mounting system for the polarizer, a liquid crystal light modulation panel and a projection lens to form a last-stage sub-assembly for a projection display system.